

New Season! New Faces!

Join us in welcoming Andrew Le and Jennifer Walvoord as the new Artistic Directors of the Chamber Music Festival of Saugatuck.

Le, piano, and Walvoord, violin, were tapped for this position by the outgoing artistic director, Joan Conway, who served in the role for over ten years. “We are so excited to be given this opportunity”, says Walvoord who has performed in the festival series during four recent seasons and who earlier in her career spent two years working as a student intern at the festival. “They have the perfect combination of skills for the task and, most important, they are both outstanding musicians,” says Conway, who continues to serve on the board of directors of the festival as Artistic Director Emerita. In addition to having the skills and the talent for the job, Le and Walvoord, who are husband and wife, have a great respect for the festival. “We intend to continue to feature regional talent and will add some new local artists as well,” says Le.
